Economic Impact
Payments/
Stimulus
Checks

- The CARES Act will send a one-time payment of $1,200 to eligible adults earning up to $75,000 and $2,400 to couples earning up to $150,000. The income is based on 2019 adjusted gross income (or 2018 if you haven't filed your 2019 tax return). Eligible families will receive an additional $500 for each child under the age of 17. You will get a check if you have a Social Security number, and are not claimed by someone else as a dependent.
- Social Security beneficiaries who are not typically required to file tax returns will not need to file to receive a payment. Instead, payments will be automatically deposited into their bank accounts. However, some people who typically do not file returns will need to submit a simple tax return to receive the economic impact payment.
- Recipients can expect payments via direct deposit, but if the IRS does not have your bank information you can provide it on their website, otherwise, payments will come via mail.
- The IRS has a "Get My Payment" service on their website. It allows clients to confirm whether they prefer direct deposit or a paper check, and enter their bank account information if the IRS doesn't have it yet. It also has a "Non-Filers" service for those who are not required to file a federal income tax return.
- TurboTax has partnered with the IRS to help speed up the delivery of stimulus payments to people who aren't required to file tax returns. Go to: turbotax.intuit.com/stimulus-check

Contact your mortgage servicer (the company where you send your monthly payments) as soon as possible to let them know about your current circumstances. The telephone number and mailing address of your mortgage servicer should be listed on your monthly mortgage statement.

*Failure to contact your lender will result in negative things including penalties, bad credit, and ultimately, perhaps, foreclosure.

Renter Assistance

Governor Newsom and the County of San Luis Obispo issued executive orders to temporarily suspend evictions of tenants who are unable to pay rent because of COVID-19. The order will be in effect through May 31, 2020.

Contact your landlord as soon as possible to let them know about your current circumstances. Explain to your landlord in writing (which can be an email or text if you normally communicate with your landlord via email or text) that you cannot pay your rent because of COVID-19 and save a copy.

Click here for a sample letter you can give to your landlord.

*Failure to contact your landlord will result in negative things including penalties, bad credit, and ultimately, perhaps, an eviction.

Tenants seeking legal advice can contact the CRLA's San Luis Obispo office at 805-544-7994 or the San Luis Obispo Legal Assistance Foundation (SLOLAF) at 805-543-5140. Both nonprofits provide legal services to low-income residents, but SLOLAF only assists seniors ages 60 and over and low-income veterans.

Car Insurance	If you're experiencing financial difficulties due to COVID-19 and need assistance, please get in touch with your car insurance company. Many companies are offering special payment plans and assistance but you must contact them first.
Car Loans	If you can't make your car payment contact your lender. While you may be afraid to contact your lender and tell them you're out of work, many lenders are offering special forbearance programs to help borrowers through the next several months. If yours is not, there are still options available. Not doing anything or hiding your job loss from your lender is not a good strategy. Missing payments and potentially defaulting on your loan are mistakes that can haunt your credit for years after the crisis has passed.
